

PromiseNet 2019 - Resource Exhibitor Opportunity

Join the Movement to make higher education a right and a reality for all

PromiseNet 2019 - Conference Overview

Across the nation, cities, nonprofit organizations, community colleges, public sector leaders, and creative cross-sector partnerships are striving to make higher education affordable and accessible to all students. At PromiseNet, these leaders come together in a community of practice to share strategies and resources in the movement to make higher education a reality for students who have been traditionally left behind.

This year, building on over a decade of success, we are proud to bring PromiseNet to the Bay Area in partnership with UC Berkeley, Richmond Promise, and Contra Costa Community College District. On November 4-5, we will be convening California and national leaders to spark ideas and energy for the next movement of community-wide college-success initiatives.

We are offering a vendor opportunity to organizations that would like to be present at PromiseNet and promote an innovative product or model that furthers the mission of the Promise movement toward educational equity. In addition to attending as a participant, each vendor will receive unique benefits and opportunities to share resources, network with this national audience, and more greatly benefit from the conference.
